Draft Of Ike Predicted By GOP Senator

Aiken Believes He Will Be Reelected For Second Term

WASHINGTON, Dec 5 (AP)—Sen. Aiken (R-Vt) predicted today that Republicans will draft President Eisenhower for a second term "and he'll be reelected even if he does not want it now."

Aiken, a veteran Republican who usually is classed in the liberal or progressive wing of the party, said in an interview that Eisenhower "has been acting like a one-term president."

"He has made decisions that would indicate he wants only one four-year term," Aiken said. "But that's just why the people will insist he serve a second."

Two other Republican senators, Duff of Pennsylvania and Mrs. Hazel Abel of Nebraska, agreed with Aiken in separate interviews.

"We Will Draft Him"

Sen. Abel, who is serving the last two months of the term of the late Sen. Dwight Griswold, said "we will have to draft him, if that's the only way."

Duff, former governor of Pennsylvania, said he is confident Eisenhower is the only presidential possibility who can be counted on now to win in 1956.

One of the original Ike-for-President boosters, Duff said the President's popularity will continue at an unbeatable level.

None of the three senators claims to know whether the President wants or is willing to seek another term.

Aiken said:

"Unless there are some unforeseen developments between now and the 1956 Republican nominating convention, Eisenhower will be the only name that will be seriously considered."

The high level of stability in our economic and international relations will cause most of the voters to demand that he be a two-term president."

May Push Someone Else

Aiken said there may be some moves "among the conservative Republicans to push some other candidate," adding:

"But the professional Republicans will have to support Eisenhower or lose the election. I doubt if there will be any effort to set up a 'right wing' movement after what happened in the New Jersey election."

Aiken said he referred to the November victory of Republican Senate candidate Clifford P. Case, former House member who sharply criticized Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) and drew open opposition of some New Jersey Republican leaders.

Aiken said this movement attracted less than 45,000 voters out of more than two millions.

Soviet Press Backs Sentence Of Fliers

MOSCOW, Dec. 5 (AP)—The Soviet press today endorsed Red China's sentencing of 13 Americans on spy charges. The newspapers denounced the new U.S. pact with Chiang Kai-shek and said any attempt by the Peiping regime to take over Formosa is Peiping's own business.

There was no hint of any Russian support for an attack on Chiang's forces on Formosa. The papers called the Washington-Formosa pact a "provocational act against the Chinese people."

Intended Victim Of Murder Plot Says Wife Is Innocent

NEW YORK, Dec. 5 (AP)—James Ricco, a stubborn and devoted husband, insisted today that his wife was innocent of plotting to murder him—and was actually the intended victim.

Furthermore, Ricco told reporters, he is working hard to raise $50,000 bail for her.

Mrs. Patricia Ricco, 30, and two other women were arrested Friday on charges of conspiring to have a taxi driver run over Ricco in order to collect insurance and money from a fake negligence suit which altogether could have totaled $103,000.

"The police never gave me a chance to tell them anything," said Ricco, a 40-year-old building superintendent and railroad employee. "My wife is not only innocent but she was the target. She was the one due to be crushed against the pillar."

He referred to the allegation that the taxi driver had been instructed to crush him against an elevated railroad pillar while he was walking the family dog.

Conference With Korea Allies Is Set Today; May Ask Commission

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Dec. 5 (AP)—A quick U.N. Assembly decision on measures to press for the release of U.S. airmen and other U.N. personnel jailed by Red China was expected before the end of the week, U.N. sources said today.

The United States still has not decided what specific measures it will ask the U.N. to take.

Another conference with its 15 Korean War Allies tomorrow morning may bring a decision whether Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold will be asked to intercede or whether a "neutral" nation commission might be set up.

Based on a U.S. State Department statement, it appeared the U.S. delegation and its allies here were now prepared to ask not only for the release of 11 fliers jailed by the Chinese Communists as spies but also for two U.S. Army civilians whose cases President Eisenhower declined to discuss last week.

Asks Prompt Action

The U.S. memorandum to the U.N. yesterday asking for prompt and decisive U.N. action noted that it was "to bring about the release of these 11 officers and men and all other captured personnel of the United Nations Command still detained."

The two civilians are John T. Downey, 34, of New Britain, Conn., and Richard G. Fecteau, 27, Lynn, Mass., who the Chinese Reds claimed were shot down over Manchuria in November 1952.

The Communists claimed the men testified they were on a spying mission. Downey was sentenced to life, Fecteau to 20 years.

The State Department and the Army, as well as the British government, have denounced all the spying charges as "trumped up."

The State Department statement last night said the cases of the 11 airmen, the two civilians and all other persons held by Communist China "in apparent violation of the Korean armistice agreement" were being discussed by the 16 Korean War Allies here. The department declined to elaborate on its linking in the two civilians now.

Decline To Comment

U.S. delegation sources also declined comment except to point to the memorandum filed yesterday by Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., chief U.S. delegate.

Lodge last week pledged his efforts to getting all the prisoners released but said then there was some question whether the two civilians were in the U.N. forces.

Reuther said practically automatic factories, machines and production techniques are raising manpower output "at a rate that would have been considered impossible only 10 years ago."

Concern with the "automaton" problem was a major point raised by the CIO chief in an annual report to the CIO convention which opens a week's session tomorrow.

Reuther said the fruits of more efficient production can be "a blessing only if they are shared equitably among the various economic groups of the population." Otherwise, he said, "Millions of workers will ultimately be displaced because their manpower will no longer be needed."

"Social wisdom is needed to match scientific advances," Reuther said. "The buying power of wages and salaries, in this period, must increase faster than the national economy's rising productivity—to make up for past lags and to give consumer income its much needed boost."

Reuther's report cited a number of "startling advances in technology." It mentioned a new Ford engine block assembly line producing as many units with 41 men as once required 117 workers, a plant turning out 90,000 light bulbs an hour, a modern steel plant where 6,500 workers can match output with 11,000 in olden mills, and semi-dialing long distance telephone service.

Reuther sharply criticized present national economic policies, saying, "Not since the days of Coolidge, Hoover and Harding has the federal government given so many privileges to business and the wealthy, as has the Eisenhower administration."

He urged such CIO goals as higher wages, reduced taxes for lower income families, government-aided housing and public works programs, improved minimum wage and social security standards, and special aid to areas heavily hit by unemployment as a "required program for economic progress."

Huyen, a former minister of labor and social action, studied in France and was the first Vietnamese to become a veterinarian and bacteriologist. For five years he worked in the Vietminh zone before coming over to the government side in 1950.

He said his principal objective will be to make the country's thousands of refugees from the Vietminh-controlled North self-sufficient as quickly as possible.

Conant Returns

DUESSELDORF, Germany, Dec. 5 (AP)—The U.S. high commissioner for Germany, Dr. James B. Conant, returned today from a week long visit in the United States when he conferred with President Eisenhower and State Department officials.

Authorities also have reopened an investigation into an attempt on Ricco's life 18 months ago.

On that occasion he was shot twice in the chest by an intruder when he opened the door of his apartment.

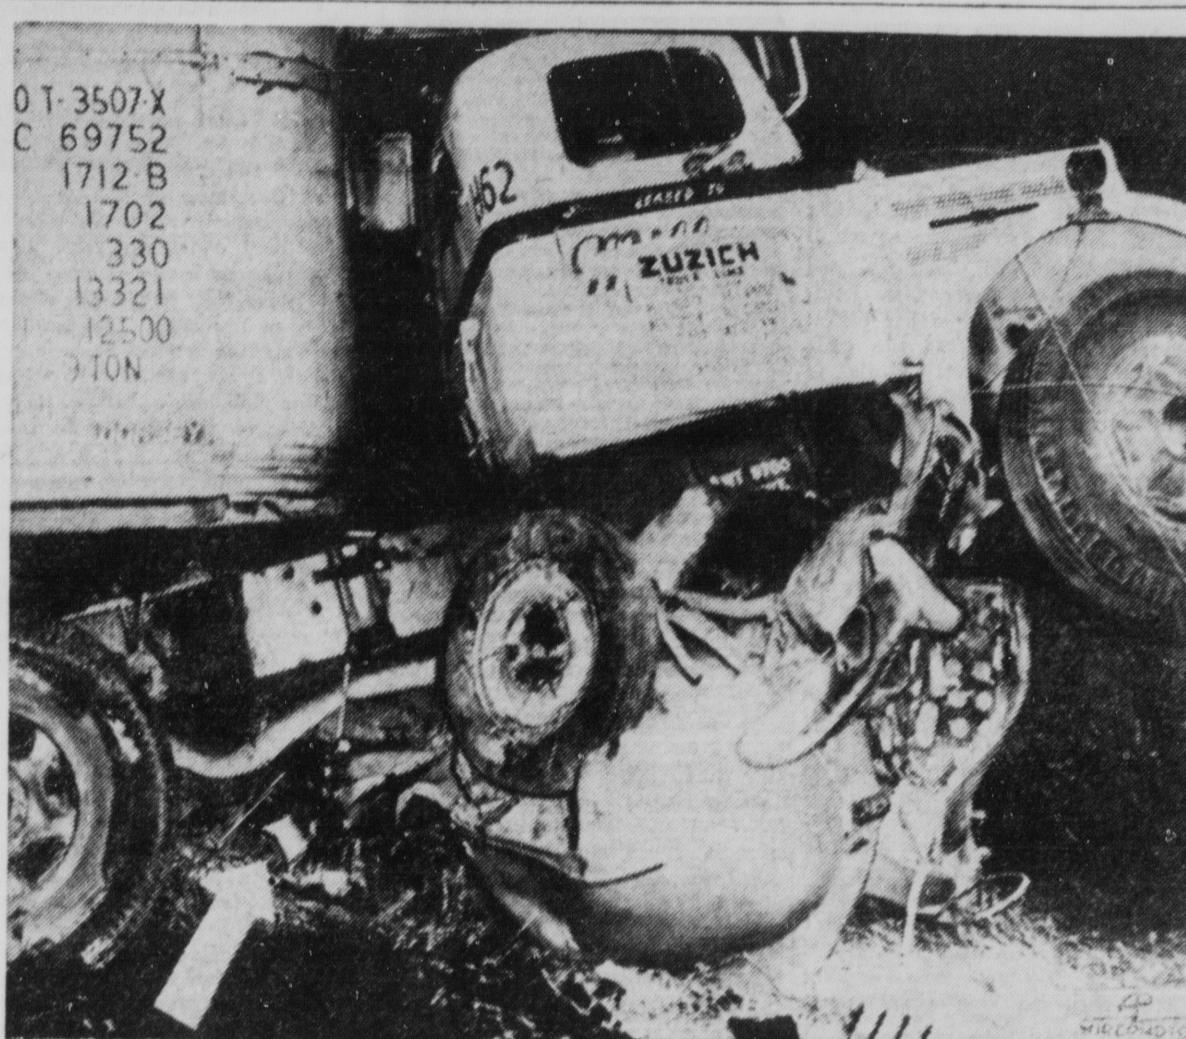

Five Persons Die In Five-Car Wreck

PONTIAC, Mich., Dec. 5 (AP)—Five persons were killed today in a five-car accident one mile north of nearby Oxford.

Dead are: Harold Magnum, 21, Charles Nelson, 26, Lynn Best, 27, Max Smith, 30, and Edna Kuck, 31, all of the Oxford Area.

Police said five persons also were injured, none seriously.

Officers said four cars apparently were headed in one direction on a two-lane road, while one was headed in the opposite direction.

Reuther Warns "Push Buttons" Ruining Labor

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 5 (AP)—CIO President Walter Reuther today warned that push-button factory production threatens the nation with mass unemployment unless wages are raised enough to buy expanded output.

The two civilians are John T. Downey, 34, of New Britain, Conn., and Richard G. Fecteau, 27, Lynn, Mass., who the Chinese Reds claimed were shot down over Manchuria in November 1952.

The Communists claimed the men testified they were on a spying mission. Downey was sentenced to life, Fecteau to 20 years.

Swedes To Begin Driving To Right On Home Highways

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Dec. 5 (AP)—About four years hence, motor tourists from the United States will feel right at home on Swedish highways.

Sweden has decided to switch from left to right hand traffic at June 7, 1959.

The memorandum, referring to "all other captured personnel of the U.N. Command," takes in about 600 persons, including more than 500 Americans, 45 Britons, half a dozen Turks, and one or two men each from the forces of other countries that fought in Korea.

Diem Appoints New Minister

SAIGON, Viet Nam, Dec. 5 (AP)—Premier Ngo Dinh Diem today relieved his commissioner of refugees and appointed a former minister, Dr. Pham Van Huyen, in his place.

Huyen, who takes over tomorrow, has a reputation for energy and administrative ability which is expected to help unsnarl the generally unsatisfactory refugee situation. He succeeds Ngo Ngoc Doi, whose resignation was asked by the premier.

It was the story which Fred Bezer, 34, taxi driver, told police which led to the women's arrest.

Ricco displayed a red jacket as proof of his belief that his wife, the mother of three children, was intended as the victim of the alleged death plot.

"It belongs to my wife," he said waving the garment. "I don't own a red coat or jacket."

This was in reference to the allegation that the cab driver was recognized Ricco by a red jacket.

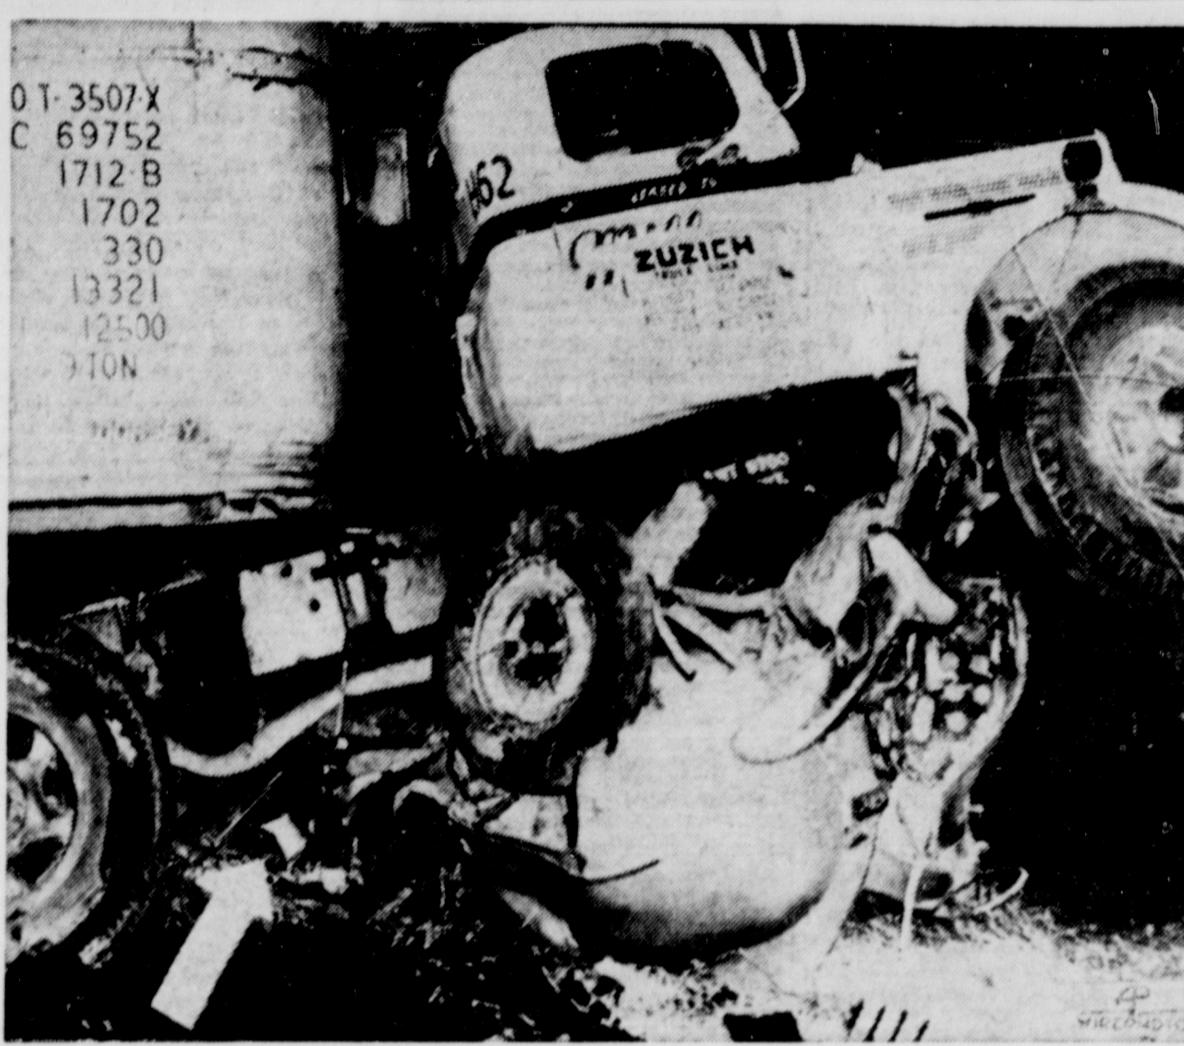

Bronx Asst. Dist. Atty. Louis Silver said, however, that authorities had learned a red plaid jacket was to be bought for Ricco. After Bezer told his story, Silver asserted, authorities used wiretaps to help break the case.

Authorities also have reopened an investigation into an attempt on Ricco's life 18 months ago.

On that occasion he was shot twice in the chest by an intruder when he opened the door of his apartment.

He said he was "very much impressed" by actions of the secretary of state and President Eisenhower "in laying the matter before the United Nations . . . for contacting Red China, our allies the British, and even working through the Soviet Union. I think every peaceful means should be used to get these men out alive."

Mansfield spoke on CBS-TV's "Face of the Nation." Other senators discussing the subject on other broadcasts were Saltonstall (R-Mass) and Barrett (R-Wyo).

All agreed the United States must press for the release of American prisoners held by the Chinese Communists.

He urged such CIO goals as higher wages, reduced taxes for lower income families, government-aided housing, and public works programs, improved minimum wage and social security standards, and special aid to areas heavily hit by unemployment as a "required program for economic progress."

NEW YORK, Dec. 5 (AP)—The new 20,000-ton liner Saxonica paid its first visit to New York today and received the traditional harbor welcome of fireboat maneuvers, ships' whistles and horns and a band playing at the pier.

The Cunard liner vessel made her maiden voyage to Montreal last September.

The ship docked with 718 passengers from Liverpool some 36 hours late due to bucking gale and hurricane force winds.

Reuther said practically automatic factories machines and production techniques are raising manpower output "at a rate that would have been considered impossible only 10 years ago."

Pontiff Takes Broth, Blesses People Of Rome

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 5 (AP)—Pius XII swallowed a few spoonfuls of broth today, took a long nap and then—appearing stronger than at any time since his collapse Thursday—broadcast a benediction by microphone from his sickbed to the people of Rome.

It was a "live" broadcast. Vatican Radio technicians had wanted to make tape recording of the Pope's benediction several hours in advance, but his nap upset the plans.

By the gravest ailment of his 78 years, the pontiff was sleeping when the technicians gathered in his antechamber in early afternoon and his physicians declined to disturb him. He awoke only a short time before his words were to be directed to a ceremony in St. Peter's Basilica. So the microphone was held over his lips for direct relay to the basilica's loudspeakers and the Vatican Radio.

At one point the voice of the enfeebled leader of the world's Roman Catholics faded slightly, but most of his brief message was stated firmly and with cadence.

"To our dear children of beloved Rome, whom we feel as close to us in prayer as we are close to the divine master in our suffering and in our fulfillment of his ever good and benign will," the Pope said, "we impart, with our hearts turned to the Lord and the Immaculate Virgin, our paternal and apostolic benediction."

Then he gave his benediction, a supplication he has repeated countless times in the past. His listeners regarded it as specially significant today. Millions have been praying for his recovery. The great crowd in the basilica cheered as he finished.

The St. Peter's service was the veneration ceremony for an Italian Benedictine monk, Placido Riccardo. The monk, who died in 1915 renowned for his humility and spirit of sacrifice, was beatified earlier today. Six cardinals were among the high prelates at the beatification, the church's highest honor next to sainthood. Thirteen cardinals were on hand for the veneration ceremony. It was the first such ceremony in 16 years that the Pope had not been able to attend.

Only four days ago, the pontiff was in grave peril, medical experts said. Hiccups, nausea and fever took their toll in recurrence of an abdominal ailment. He was still critically ill today, but he appeared no longer in imminent danger.

East Side Firemen Answer Two Calls

A flare pot ignited leaking gas from a line in the front of 702 Frederick Street yesterday afternoon and East Side firemen were called to the scene.

The blaze was out on arrival, as maintenance workers of the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company used a hand extinguisher to quench the fire. East Side received the call about 2:17 p. m.

In another call, the same company reported to Apartment 3E in the Benjamin Banneker Homes housing project on Frederick Street and checked a fire there.

A dust mop apparently had been placed on a stove in the apartment and later placed on the floor. The mop smoldered and scorched a part of the kitchen floor. The call was received at 5:15 p. m.

Man Is Sought In Shooting Of W.Va. Hunter

Authorities of Hardy County (W. Va.) are conducting a widespread search for the unknown hunter who shot and fatally wounded a 19-year-old boy Tuesday in the Waite Run section rear Wardensville.

The search is being headed by the West Virginia State Police, according to Sheriff A. W. Mathias, who said the probe got underway following the death of Benny Combs of Wardensville, who died Thursday in Winchester (Va.) Memorial Hospital of an abdominal wound.

Combs, acting as a deer hunting guide for three Maryland men, was using the rifle of Robert Spangler, 511 Ridge Avenue, Hagerstown.

A bullet from a high-powered rifle in the hand of an unidentified nimrod, apparently on another ridge, pierced the stock of the weapon held by Combs and then entered the youth's abdomen.

Also with Combs were Paul Traumppower and Paul Kunkleman, Hagerstown.

The victim was driving a herd of deer toward a group of 16 hunters when the shooting occurred on the property of his aunt, Mrs. Ada Miller, who resides a half mile from the Combs home.

After firing the shot, the unknown hunter disappeared into the wooded mountains. Combs was taken to the hospital in critical condition.

SANTA CLAUS TOPS—IF YOU LIVE IN U. S. YULETIDE GIFT BRINGER MOST POPULAR IN AMERICA

By GROVER BRINKMAN
Central Press Correspondent

BOSTON—Is Old Santa losing his popularity in this competitive age of the atom? Not in America, perhaps. However, world-wide, he is not only losing it—he never was generally popular in the first place!

Authority for that unusual statement is none other than Wrightson Christopher, a Bostonian who is one of the country's foremost historians on Christmas legend and fact.

The American Santa Claus was never widely known around the world as a gift-bringer, according to Christopher. Mostly, it is the Wise Men who are credited with bearing gifts, especially in Eastern and Southern Europe.

In Hungary, for instance, the gifts come from the angels themselves; in Poland from the stars; in Greece St. Basil is the gift-bearing patron saint. While in Denmark it is an elusive elf—Julenisse.

CHECKING the works of ancient historians, Christopher found that first mention of gifts at Christmas was the result of a custom instituted by Roman emperors who "invited" their subjects to make gifts to the monarch at this season—or suffer the consequences. Generally the consequences were mass beatings for those who disregarded the command.

Take the word "Yule" itself. Its origin dates back to the ancient northern peoples who presumed that the sun was a wheel, revolving around the earth, which reached its solstice in the winter. Hence this cycle of the sun was known to them as the Hwæl.

Peering further into ancient Druid history, it was revealed that they were the first to burn a log at this season, blessing it with much ceremony. And at each ceremon, a brand was saved to rekindle the new fire. Hence the Yule Log of today.

THE LIGHTING of candles was instituted by the early Romans as a pagan celebration, without any religious significance. However, later Christian religion merged the ceremony into that commemorating the birth of Christ.

The traditions of Christmas are varied and many. Some can be traced, but most are lost in the dim recesses of history. However, the story of St. Nicholas is rooted in fact, as it has been definitely established that he lived in Asia Minor, back in the Ninth or Tenth Century.

"I am often asked," noted Christopher, "whether homes all over the world have Christmas trees. The answer is a definite no. It is the Christmas crib which is more widely known as a symbol. They also use the turtle, whose life is supposed to be 10 times that of the stork.

AMONG the ancient legends of Christmas is the one of the Christmas candle. It tells of a shoemaker who lived in a cottage on the edge of a village. Although a poor man, he placed his candle in the window each night to guide travelers. Despite wars and hardships and illness, his light was always there. This inspired the villagers and at the Christmas season there were many candles in many windows. The custom grew and became universal.

Another undying tale is the legend of the Christmas Rose. A little shepherdess watching from

Police Chief Flynn Advises Caution For Yule Shoppers

He listed the following three basic rules for shoppers:

Burial Ground Halts Road Work

A bulldozer several days ago scooped up a crude wooden coffin. Work was suspended after five other coffins were found.

The county will ask for bids from funeral homes to rebury the coffins in the Welfare Department's cemetery at Rockville.

City Forces To Lay Line Across Bridge

City forces will begin to install the water line on the new Blue Bridge this week, according to William J. Edwards, commissioner of water and electric light.

He said pipe for the new line, which will provide a water supply for Ridgeley, has been on the site for some time.

The C & A Gas Company has already placed a new gas line for Ridgeley on the superstructure of the span.

Today's Sermonette

THERE is an interesting German legend which explains the origin of the pine cone, widely used at Christmastime. This tells of a poor woman climbing a mountain to pick cones for fuel. She was approached by an elf who told her to "take only the cones under the tree at my side." The woman picked up the cones and found they had turned to silver. Thus the silver pine cone we have today.

In Mexico, the Pinata is featured at Christmas. It is a fragile article of earthenware, painted with a doll's face. Children, blindfolded, shatter it with sticks, to find it full of fruits and gifts.

The Bohemians have a tradition that if a girl cuts a hole in the ice at midnight on Christmas Eve, she will see the face of her future husband.

ODDLY, it is the Japanese who top the list. Their cards invariably bear a symbol of the stork, because they believe this bird has a life cycle of 1,000 years. They also use the turtle, whose life is supposed to be 10 times that of the stork.

In Lochem, Holland, there once hung two church bells of remarkable tone. However, these bells had never been baptized, and one night they disappeared. Then one Christmas Eve, the villagers again heard the bells. However, they were never found. This is the basis for the Christmas bells we find today on our Christmas cards.

The roots of Christmas customs go very deep into the folklore of the Scandinavians, the Romans, and even the prehistoric Druids, so deep that most of it is lost in antiquity. The fact remains, though, that Christmas is still—

Don't leave purses and valuables on desk and counters; don't leave merchandise in unlocked automobiles and don't display large sums of money in public places.

If anything is lost or stolen, telephone Police Headquarters at 1680 or notify a patrolman immediately, Flynn urged, adding:

"Don't park cars with Yule merchandise on unlighted streets or in parking lots where attendants are not on duty."

Chief Flynn said a well known "con-game" is the delivery of a package COD and when the contents are examined the package contains torn up newspaper or excisor.

The old "pickpocket trick" is a favorite, too. A couple of sharpies "find" a purse full of money and offer to "cut in" the innocent bystander, or "mark", for part of the loot if he puts up some money to show his good intentions. They get the cash, hand over the pocketbook and decamp. Naturally, there's nothing in it but crumpled-up paper.

A constant patrol of shopping crowds will be maintained by police to cut down dishonest actions.

Safelywise, shoppers should carry packages in such a manner that their vision is not obscured and motorists should be extra cautious on streets jammed with pedestrians and vehicles.

East Side Firemen Answer Two Calls

A flare pot ignited gas from a line in the front of 702 Frederick Street yesterday afternoon and East Side firemen were called to the scene.

The blaze was out on arrival, as maintenance workers of the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company used a hand extinguisher to quench the fire. East Side received the call about 2:17 p. m.

In another call, the same company reported to Apartment 3E in the Benjamin Banneker Homes housing project on Frederick Street and checked a fire there.

A dust mop apparently had been placed on a stove in the apartment and later placed on the floor. The mop smoldered and scorched a part of the kitchen floor. The call was received at 5:15 p. m.

Adenauer Forces Are Behind In Berlin Parliament Voting

BERLIN, Dec. 5 (AP) — West Berlin voted for a new city Parliament today. The issue was whether this former capital — surrounded, threatened, impoverished and dependent — still had the grit to reject radical extremes — left or right.

West Berliners met the issue head-on. A huge majority of the 1,700,000 eligible voters cast ballots. Voters participation in the last city election, in 1950, was 90.4 per cent.

Incomplete returns showed the Socialists, traditionally strong in Berlin, were running far ahead of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's Christian Democrats (CDU). First scattered returns had put CDU momentarily ahead. The Communists (SED) and the Neo-Nazi German party (DP) rightists were collecting less than the 5 per cent needed to win seats in the city government through proportional representation. The election turnout reported a record turnout — 91.4 per cent — of West Berlin's 1,697,472 registered voters.

The incomplete returns at 9 p.m. gave the Socialists 55.801; the Christian Democrats, 33.526, and with their federal coalition partner, the Free Democrats (FDP), 46.057; German party, 4,782; Communists, 3,609.

Violence and police action climaxed the election. A gang of 30 Communists, armed with clubs, beat up six Socialists in the French sector in the early morning. Six Reds were jailed.

In the American sector, 33 Communists from East Berlin were arrested for loitering illegally near the polls and trying to make trouble. The Soviet sector is not participating in the election, having had its own Communist rump government since 1948. Police seized 10 other persons in scattered West side incidents for violating the "forbidden zone" around the polls.

At stake were 127 seats in the city Parliament, which speaks for 2,300,000 Berliners in the three Western sectors. The government gave 73 other seats "open" for 1,200,000 Communist - ruled East Berliners as a symbol of hope for the city's eventual reunification.

Robbery Trial To Begin Today

CAMBRIDGE, Md., Dec. 5 (AP) — Trial of a part-time barber, one of two men accused of beating and robbing a Bishop's Head waterman, $6,000 to $7,000 last July 17, will begin tomorrow in Circuit Court here.

Indicted on charges of robbery in the Winnie E. Jones case were Weldon Thomas, about 32, and Johnny Parks, 24, both of Wingate, Md. The grand jury, which returned the indictments during October, turned down the State's request for assault charges.

M'Keldin Jibe On Md. Deficit Taken To Task

BALTIMORE, Dec. 5 (AP) — Gov. McKeldin's statement that Democrats in the last political campaign "were just pikers" in estimating the State deficit drew fire tonight from T. Barton Harrington, chairman of Democratic State Central Committee.

"I am sure that the Maryland taxpayer, already overburdened by oppressive levies, will not look upon this matter in the facetious way that the governor does," said Harrington in a press statement.

Harrington, Baltimore attorney mentioned as a possible candidate in next spring's primary for mayor, referred to McKeldin's statement in a speech at the newly opened Patuxent Institute last Friday.

"During the campaign," said McKeldin, "my opponents said there would be an 18-million-dollar deficit. But they were just pikers — it's 30 million dollars."

Supporters of the idea argue that the greatest danger in the present situation is the Chinese Nationalists, who "with nothing to lose may throw the world into war by some unwise move."

"In the last campaign the Democratic party accused the incumbent Republican administration of mismanagement and neglect and did predict a deficit of 18-million-dollars."

"This issue was avoided by the Republicans and the truth has been hidden until now. Although the budget is the sole responsibility of the governor, he failed to take the people of this state into his confidence until one month after the election," x x x x

Youth Admits Story Hoax In Shooting Mishap

ELKTON, Md., Dec. 5 (AP) — A 14-year-old boy's story about being shot by two hunters had police busy and a couple of other fellows puzzled yesterday until the lad admitted he shot himself.

State police and officers in Baltimore, Harford and Cecil Counties were busy looking for the pair of hunters described by young Harry A. Christian as his assailants.

Harry said one of them shot him in the hand when he ordered them off his father's farm near North East, Md.

Two men answering the description were picked up on U.S. 1 a short time later. They admitted being on the farm but denied any connection with the shooting.

Doctors at Harford Memorial Hospital in Havre de Grace, where Harry was taken for treatment, told police the boy's wound could not have been caused by a hunting rifle.

Confronted by the denials of the men and the medical information, Harry admitted he had accidentally shot himself with a .22 caliber revolver, police said.

They said the boy made up the story to avoid parental discipline.

PAOLI, Pa., Dec. 5 (AP) — Two locomotives and 31 cars of two Pennsylvania Railroad freight trains were derailed just west of here today, tearing up some 500 feet of the PRR's four-track main line.

HONG KONG, Dec. 5 (AP) — Squad-Lt. Col. O. D. Simpson, U.S. Air Force attache in Hong Kong.

MacKenzie's only statement to newsmen as he posed briefly for photographers at a Hong Kong pier today after two years' imprisonment in Red China. He told U.S. and Canadian officials some American war prisoners are being held at his prison camp.

The Americans do not include any of the 13 recently sentenced by the Communist Chinese on spy charges, he said. They were identified as Air Force fliers whose imprisonment is known to their families, but their names and numbers were not disclosed.

MacKenzie was credited with destroying 8½ enemy planes while serving as a fighter pilot with U.N. forces in Korea. He crossed back to freedom through the Bamboo Curtain two years to the day after he was shot down near the Yalu River while flying as an exchange officer with the U.S. Air Force.

The Canadian Foreign Ministry was notified informally by the Peiping regime Nov. 23 that MacKenzie would be freed today.

Three Red Chinese guards accompanied the Canadian to the border of this British colony. First to greet him were his brother-in-law, Wing Cmdr. Donald Skene of the Royal Canadian Air Force, and

Survey Stresses Classroom Need

NEW YORK, Dec. 5 (AP) — At least 950,000 new classrooms, costing $2 billion dollars, will be needed in the United States within 10 years to take care of an expected increase of 12 million in the school population, a citizens survey group said today.

Completing a 3½ year study of primary and high school needs, the National Citizens Commission for the public schools added that between 5 and 10 billion dollars more would have to be spent annually by 1965 on education.

Currently, the group reported $1 billion 900 million dollars are spent annually on public school education, and another $1 billion 100 million on private and parochial schools. The 10 billion total includes interest on bonds and amortization of building costs.

There were no recommendations on how the new costs should be financed, nor sides taken in the long-continuing controversy over federal versus local financing of education.

Adenauer Forces Are Behind In Berlin Parliament Voting

BERLIN, Dec. 5 (AP) — West Berlin voted for a new city Parliament today. The issue was whether this former capital — surrounded, threatened, impoverished and dependent — still had the grit to reject radical extremes — left or right.

West Berliners met the issue head-on. A huge majority of the 1,700,000 eligible voters cast ballots. Voters participation in the last city election, in 1950, was 90.4 per cent.

Incomplete returns showed the Socialists, traditionally strong in Berlin, were running far ahead of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's Christian Democrats (CDU). First scattered returns had put CDU momentarily ahead. The Communists (SED) and the Neo-Nazi German party (DP) rightists were collecting less than the 5 per cent needed to win seats in the city government through proportional representation. The election bureau reported a record turnout—91.4 per cent—of West Berlin's 1,697,472 registered voters.

The incomplete returns at 9 p.m. gave the Socialists 55,801; the Christian Democrats, 33,526, and with their federal coalition partner, the Free Democrats (FDP), 46,057; German party, 4,782; Communists, 3,609.

Violence and police action climaxed the election. A gang of 30 Communists, armed with clubs, beat up six Socialists in the French sector in the early morning. Six Reds were jailed.

In the American sector, 33 Communists from East Berlin were arrested for loitering illegally near the polls and trying to make trouble. The Soviet sector is not participating in the election, having had its own Communist rump government since 1948. Police seized 10 other persons in scattered West side incidents for violating the "forbidden zone" around the polls.

At stake were 127 seats in the city Parliament which speaks for 2,300,000 Berliners in the three Western sectors. The government keeps 73 other seats "open" for 1,200,000 Communist-ruled East Berliners as a symbol of hope for the city's eventual reunification.

Indicted on charges of robbery in the Winnie E. Jones case were Weldon Thomas, about 32, and Johnny Parks, 24, both of Wingate, Md. The grand jury, which returned the indictments during October, turned down the State's request for assault charges.

"Gov. McKeldin campaigned in 1950 on a platform that he would eliminate the sales tax, eliminate the state tax on real estate and reduce taxes generally. When he took office in January, 1951, he had the benefit of a 13-million-dollar surplus inherited from the previous Democratic administration. Denver Citizens Evacuate City

DENVER, Dec. 5 (AP) — An estimated 2,000 Denver residents flocked into northern Colorado's Weld County today in the first full-dress "evacuation" of a major U.S. city.

"Operation Welcome," as it was called, saw the "refugees" travel the 30 miles from Denver to the prosperous farming district in family automobiles. It marked the first time that a mock evacuation had been accompanied by operations to feed and house the "evacuees."

Civil Defense workers under the direction of retired Army Lt. Gen. Henry L. Larsen, state civil defense director, sent the "refugees" on their way from Brighton, a small community 15 miles north of Denver which served as a jump-off point.

Convoys of 15 to 25 cars, led by Weld County civil defense officials, moved from Brighton to six reception centers scattered throughout the county.

However, the mock evacuation ended when the "refugee" families sat down to Sunday dinners with their farm hosts. Following the meal, the Denver residents were "on their own" for the return trip to the city.

Survey Stresses Classroom Need

NEW YORK, Dec. 5 (AP) — At least 950,000 new classrooms, costing $2 billion dollars, will be needed in the United States within 10 years to take care of an expected increase of 12 million in the school population, a citizens survey group said today.

Completing a 3½ year study of primary and high school needs, the National Citizens Commission for the public schools added that between 5 and 10 billion dollars more would have to be spent annually by 1965 on education.

Deep Creek Lake Park Site Dispute Figures In Court

Counsel for the owners of land on Deep Creek Lake wanted for than the land sought to be condemned.

The Smiths obtained offers from other landowners at prices greatly below the actual value of the property sought by the state and that the defendants feel that 4,700 front feet on the lake is too large a tract for the state's needs.

The court action was instituted against the forests and parks group which is comprised of R. Brooke Maxwell, chairman; J. Miles Lankford, J. Wilson Lord, and Paul D. Naylor. William J. Gunter, this city, is one of the counsels for the state.

Filed In Oakland

The answer to the amended petition was filed Friday in Garrett County Circuit Court by William C. Walsh, counsel for the defendants. The Smiths through Walsh state that right and power to condemn this land is up to the court, with proof furnished by the commission.

The answer also says that the defendants feel it is not necessary to acquire the specific tract which the commission desires.

In addition, the defendants claim, there has been no reasonable effort made by the commission to reach an agreement.

The forests and parks department wants to buy the Smith tract on an acreage basis whereas in recent years land of this type on the lake has been sold on a front foot basis, Walsh states.

The commission's acreage bid would amount to the land costing only $3.65 a front foot for the 4700 front feet on the lake.

Walsh contended that the average price in recent years has been $20 a front foot and in some instances has gone up to $30 a front foot.

Also Road Frontage

The state's bid does not include the front footage of saleable sites along the county road that runs along the rear border of the tract, the local lawyer stated.

Walsh said his clients are not opposed to the establishment of a state park on the lake, but feel that there is less expensive and more suitable land available on Deep Creek Lake for it.

He said the Smiths offered to sell the state a suitable tract which already joins land owned by the state which is of much less value.

Deep Creek Lake Park Site Dispute Figures In Court

Counsel for the owners of land on Deep Creek Lake wanted for a state park has stated that the State Commission of Forests and Parks has made no reasonable effort to reach an agreement on the price.

The commission has filed a suit in Garrett County Circuit Court against Fulcher P. and Marie S. Miller of Oakland, both former residents of Cumberland.

The forests and parks group wants the court to condemn the land and set a price on the 57.1 acres owned by the Smiths.

The commission filed an amended petition on November 19 in the suit that was instituted early this year.

Filed In Oakland

The answer to the amended petition was filed Friday in Garrett County Circuit Court by William C. Walsh, counsel for the defendants.

The Smiths through Walsh state that right and power to condemn this land is up to the court, with proof furnished by the commission.

The answer also says that the defendants feel it is not necessary to acquire the specific tract which the commission desires.

In addition, the defendants claim, there has been no reasonable effort made by the commission to reach an agreement.

The forests and parks department wants to buy the Smith tract on an acreage basis where-as in recent years land of this type on the lake has been sold on a front foot basis, Walsh states.

The commission's acreage bid would amount to the land costing only $3.65 a front foot for the 4700 front feet on the lake.

Walsh contended that the average price in recent years has been $20 a front foot and in some instances has gone up to $30 a front foot.

Also Road Frontage

The state's bid does not include the front footage of saleable sites along the county road that runs along the rear border of the tract, the local lawyer stated.

Is Another Purge Brewing In Russia?

Is trouble brewing in Moscow? One-man rule whether under an emperor by divine right or a super-bureaucrat with Marrian credentials, is the kind of government Russians are used to. For more than 21 months since Stalin died, there has been no one-man rule in Russia. There will continue to be intrigues behind the scenes until only one man strong enough to aspire to top powers remains.

One of the ninepins has already toppled. Stalin was succeeded by a triumvirate composed of Malenkov, Beria and Molotov. Suddenly Beria was purged in July 1953 as an "enemy of the people." At the same time it was announced that a central committee of the Communist party was, in effect, the supreme authority in Russia.

But it is doubtful that this situation is stable. Malenkov and Molotov remain as equals—which in Russia necessarily means rivals. Party Secretary Krushchev appears to have risen to a level with them. Can the three remain in equilibrium?

There is also the Red army to be considered. The army sat in on the power game and took a hand when Beria was purged. Since then there have been indications that the central committee is systematically attempting to undermine the army's power. Marshals Zhukov and Sokolovsky, for example, have been mysteriously missing from official military functions.

This doesn't necessarily mean that a new purge is about to occur—or has already taken place. But increases in consumer goods and living standards promised after Stalin's death have not been forthcoming, and the people of Russia, having been encouraged to hope for a real change in their government's attitude, face bitter disillusionment. This atmosphere of popular discontent creates favorable conditions for a smooth operator to get rid of a rival by putting the blame on him.

And there is always the possibility that the internecine struggle will not end in a clear-cut victory for one man, like Stalin's victory over Trotsky. In that case the Soviet monolith will not be strengthened but weakened.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Who Knows What?

Mrs. Louise S. Frisch of Baltimore has sent me a copy of a letter which she addressed to Senator Arthur V. Watkins who has sprung to recent fame as the hard and strong man in the McCarthy controversy. The first paragraph of this letter amused me and it may you:

"When you (Senator Watkins) told me yesterday that you have 'forgotten more about communism than Senator Jenner ever knew,' I thought perhaps you were responding to my inquiry self-defensively in a moment of irritation."

Perhaps the lady misquotes the senator but it is amusing to accept her statement and go on from there.

I have no idea what either Senator Watkins or Senator Jenner knows about the canon of the Marxist Church which is the foundation of all Communist thought and action in all the world. I do know that Senator Jenner employs one of the truly significant authorities on this subject in this country. Benjamin Mandel, whose knowledge is so profound that many who regard themselves as experts consult him constantly. So, even if Senator Jenner is not a great expert, he has sense enough to employ one.

Granted that Senator Watkins has "forgotten more about communism" than Senator Jenner or anyone else ever knew, we shall have to take his word for it that he has forgotten the subject and let it go at that. No one can be blamed for forgetting.

It would be an interesting escapade to have a debate on the floor of the Senate between Senator Watkins and Senator Jenner or any other senators who rattle the word "communism" in their throats as though it came out of their brains. It would be of advantage to the country to see exactly what they mean by this word. Encountering many senators in the course of my business, I have discovered very few who can really define Marxism in terms which a Marxist can understand. Mostly they just don't like it, which may be as good as any definition. Few of them, for instance, can explain why a materialistic, pragmatic, atheistic concept of the cosmos should make converts so easily among the intellectuals of Europe and Asia.

A nice debate on the theory of communism would perhaps clarify the atmosphere. Maybe they would come out of it with some definitions. I recommend Earl Browder as the moderator, as he was for so many years the principal exponent of the doctrine in the United States. In fact, Browder was the most successful operator of the Marxist system until he was dismissed by Stalin as no longer of any value.

Perhaps it might be done in questionnaire form. The senator might then answer a question or two in this order:

1. Why does a Hindu regard American materialism (high standard of living and all that) as not essentially different from the materialism of Marxism except in the apparatus of achievement?

2. Why is it that a Confucian does not find Marxism repugnant to his central doctrine?

3. What effect has the vast accumulation of data in the natural sciences, particularly in the fields of biology, astrophysics and nuclear physics, had upon the receptivity of Marxism by youth?

4. What is the fundamental difference between the "Natural Law" and "Dialectical Materialism" and why is it therefore impossible for one to be a Christian and a Communist at the same time?

5. Why is it essential for Communists, whenever they take over a country, to organize to combat all forms of mysticism, particularly when belief in mystical phenomena is organized in the form of a universal church?

Perhaps Senator Watkins, who says he has forgotten so much, could be diverted from a critique of Joe McCarthy to a critique of Karl Marx. It would be an interesting exercise in forensics and should be particularly appetizing to one who was once a Christian missionary.

On the problem of the strategy and tactics of the Soviet Union, it would be exciting to have a debate between Senator Watkins and Representative Walter Judd who is expert on this subject. Perhaps Senator Watkins has forgotten more than Walter Judd ever knew and that would require a whale of a forgetter, for Judd is not only a scholar but a man of wide personal experience. Judd might deliver his speech in Chinese which would save Watkins the necessity of trying to understand what was being said.

Democrats Decide On Strategy Concerning McCarthy

WASHINGTON

The Democrats have already decided on the strategy they will adopt in the matter of Joseph R. McCarthy, now that he has been censured. It is to "leave him lie where they flang him."

Logically, of course, McCarthy should now be forced to answer the questions which he was censured for refusing to answer. A few Democrats — those who believe McCarthy should be expelled — favor making the attempt to force him to do so. The reason is simple. The policy of Sen. Lyndon Johnson, as minority leader, was to let the Republicans fight among themselves about McCarthy. This policy was much attacked in liberal quarters, but it has now been triumphantly vindicated by events.

Johnson and a majority of his fellow Democrats see no reason to alter a policy which has worked so well. Any further investigation of McCarthy by the Democratic-controlled Senate would simply keep his name in the headlines. And, by giving the McCarthy issue a party coloration, it might tend to rattle McCarthy's steep political decline.

McCarthy's wrist for "inappropriate statements," got only 15 votes. This was because the hardcore McCarthyites, like Jenner, Malone, Welker, and Dirksen, joined the Eisenhower Republicans and the Democrats in voting against it. In short, for the real McCarthyites there is no middle ground at all. They are the true irreconcilables.

Moreover, Senate Republican Leader William Knowland has seemingly gone over to the anti-Eisenhower wing of the party with his votes against censure. Knowland's position, taken together with the implacable fury of the right-radicals, makes it difficult to see how the Republican party can operate in the Senate an organized political grouping with an agreed central strategy.

The McCarthy battle has also badly damaged the grass roots party organization, especially in the Middle West. Most Democratic party workers are professionals — they have city hall jobs or useful city hall connections. Most Republican party workers are amateurs. And in the Midwest, any of these amateurs are McCarthy fanatics.

McCarthy Is Complete

Thus the cleavage on the McCarthy issue is complete, from top to bottom of the Republican party. And now, on top of everything else, there is more and more talk of a pro-McCarthy third party movement. This talk seemed until recently an empty threat by the McCarthyites. Now it begins to look sincere, simply because the irreconcilables have nowhere else to go.

This third party talk has caused much gleeful anticipation in Democratic circles, just as the Communist-run Progressive party movement caused much delight in Republican circles in 1948. But there are perfectly genuine reasons for believing that, even if a McCarthy third party movement does develop, the Democrats nowadays may be counting just as many un-hatched chickens as the Republicans in 1948.

Take, for example, the New Jersey vote this year, which has not been generally understood. In New Jersey, a tavern keeper and perennial candidate called Henry Krajewski got himself on the ballot. He ran as an all-out pro-McCarthy candidate. He got close to 30,000 votes, almost 10 times the margin by which Republican Clifford Case beat Democrat Charles Howell.

But the extraordinary aspect of the Krajewski vote is this. The bulk of his votes came from normally overwhelmingly Democratic precincts in Jersey City. The conclusion is obvious — and it is the conclusion the New Jersey Democrats draw. Krajewski beat Howell. Or, to put it another way, McCarthy elected Case.

A further conclusion is also obvious. A defection of the right wing radicals would not only end the long agony within the Republican party. It might actually help the Republicans at the polls. For in many areas where McCarthy is strongest, a McCarthy party would split the Democratic vote far more than the Republican vote.

Moreover, as the 1948 vote suggested, there is an underlying self-compensatory rule in American politics. A party gains, rather than loses, by shuffling off its radical extremes.

attainments. The problem of aging revolves about the state, "One is as old as he feels."

Many renowned men and women could have retired to a life of ease at 65. The world is thankful they did otherwise because of the contributions they made after middle-age. Examples can be found in every business and profession.

France placed 67-year-old Marshall Foch in supreme command during the darkest days of World War I. The Venetian, Dandolo captured Constantinople in the 12th century, when he was 94 and in our day, Haakon of Norway keeps a strong grip on the affairs of his country at age 82.

Every nation has its active, vigorous, elder statesmen in their 70's and 80's. Churchill was a war correspondent and soldier during his youth. He was first lord of the admiralty in 1918 but attained the pinnacle of success after he joined the ranks of elder statesmen. There is no doubt that Churchill played a major role in saving the civilized world from defeat and collapse.

Is Another Purge Brewing In Russia?

Is trouble brewing in Moscow? One-man rule whether under an emperor by divine right or a super-bureaucrat with Marxian credentials, is the kind of government Russians are used to. For more than 21 months since Stalin died, there has been no one-man rule in Russia. There will continue to be intrigues behind the scenes until only one man strong enough to aspire to top powers remains.

One of the ninepins has already toppled. Stalin was succeeded by a triumvirate composed of Malenkov, Beria and Molotov. Suddenly Beria was purged in July 1953 as an "enemy of the people." At the same time it was announced that a central committee of the Communist party was, in effect, the supreme authority in Russia.

But it is doubtful that this situation is stable. Malenkov and Molotov remain as equals—which in Russia necessarily means rivals. Party Secretary Krushchev appears to have risen to a level with them. Can the three remain in equilibrium?

There is also the Red army to be considered. The army sat in the power game and took a hand when Beria was purged. Since then there have been indications that the central committee is systematically attempting to undermine the army's power. Marshals Zhukov and Sokolovsky, for example, have been mysteriously missing from official military functions.

This doesn't necessarily mean that a new purge is about to occur—or has already taken place. But increases in consumer goods and living standards promised after Stalin's death have not been forthcoming, and the people of Russia, having been encouraged to hope for a real change in their government's attitude, face bitter disillusionment. This atmosphere of popular discontent creates favorable conditions for a smooth operator to get rid of a rival by putting the blame on him.

And there is always the possibility that the internecine struggle will not end in a clear-cut victory for one man, like Stalin's victory over Trotsky. In that case the Soviet monolith will not be strengthened but weakened.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Who Knows What?

Mrs. Louise S. Frisch of Baltimore has sent me a copy of a letter which she addressed to Senator Arthur V. Watkins who has sprung to recent fame as the hard and strong man in the McCarthy controversy. The first paragraph of this letter amused me and it may you:

"When you (Senator Watkins) told me yesterday that you have 'forgotten more about communism than Senator Jenner ever knew,' I thought perhaps you were responding to my inquiry self-defensively in a moment of irritation."

Perhaps the lady misquotes the senator but it is amusing to accept her statement and go on from there.

I have no idea what either Senator Watkins or Senator Jenner knows about the canon of the Marx-ist Church which is the foundation of all Communist thought and action in all the world. I do know that Senator Jenner employs one of the truly significant authorities on this subject in this country, Benjamin Mandel, whose knowledge is so profound that many who regard themselves as experts consult him constantly. So, even if Senator Jenner is not a great expert, he has sense enough to employ one.

Granted that Senator Watkins has "forgotten more about communism" than Senator Jenner or anyone else ever knew, we shall have to take his word for it that he has forgotten the subject and let it go at that. No one can be blamed for forgetting.

It would be an interesting escapade to have a debate on the floor of the Senate between Senator Watkins and Senator Jenner or any other senators who rattle the word "communism" in their throats as though it came out of their brains. It would be of advantage to the country to see exactly what they mean by this word. Encountering many senators in the course of my business, I have discovered very few who can really define Marxism in terms which a Marxist can understand. Mostly they just don't like it, which may be as good as any definition. Few of them, for instance, can explain why a materialistic, pragmatic, atheistic concept of the cosmos should make converts so easily among the intellectuals of Europe and Asia.

A nice debate on the theory of communism would perhaps clarify the atmosphere. Maybe they would come out of it with some definitions. I recommend Earl Browder as the moderator, as he was for so many years the principal exponent of the doctrine in the United States. In fact, Browder was the most successful operator of the Marxist system until he was dismissed by Stalin as no longer of any value.

Perhaps it might be done in questionnaire form. The senator might then answer a question or two in this order:

1. Why does a Hindu regard American materialism (high standard of living and all that) as not essentially different from the materialism of Marxism except in the apparatus of achievement?

2. Why is it that a Confucian does not find Marxism repugnant to his central doctrine?

3. What effect has the vast accumulation of data in the natural sciences, particularly in the fields of biology, astrophysics and nuclear physics, had upon the receptivity of Marxism by youth?

4. What is the fundamental difference between the "Natural Law" and "Dialectical Materialism" and why is it therefore impossible for one to be a Christian and a Communist at the same time?

5. Why is it essential for Communists, whenever they take over a country, to organize to combat all forms of mysticism, particularly when belief in mystical phenomena is organized in the form of a universal church?

Perhaps Senator Watkins, who says he has forgotten so much, could be diverted from a critique of Joe McCarthy to a critique of Karl Marx. It would be an interesting exercise in forensics and should be particularly appetizing to one who was once a Christian missionary.

On the problem of the strategy and tactics of the Soviet Union, it would be exciting to have a debate between Senator Watkins and Representative Walter Judd who is expert on this subject. Perhaps Senator Watkins has forgotten more than Walter Judd ever knew and that would require a whole of a forgetter, for Judd is not only a scholar but a man of wide personal experience. Judd might deliver his speech in Chinese which would save Watkins the necessity of trying to understand what was being said.

It's Later Than You Think

Democrats Decide On Strategy Concerning McCarthy

By Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON
The Democrats have already decided on the strategy they will adopt in the matter of Joseph R. McCarthy, now that he has been censured. It is to "leave him lie where they fling him."

Logically, of course, McCarthy should now be forced to answer the questions which he was censured for refusing to answer. A few Democrats — those who believe McCarthy should be expelled — favor making the attempt to force him to do so. But the great majority want to avoid any revival of the McCarthy issue, when the Democrats take control of the Senate.

The reason is simple. The policy of Sen. Lyndon Johnson, as minority leader, was to let the Republicans fight among themselves about McCarthy. This policy was much attacked in liberal quarters, but it has now been triumphantly vindicated by events.

Moreover, Sen. Thomas Hennings of Missouri, the logical choice to head a committee to finish the unfinished McCarthy business, has no stomach for the task. "I don't want to make a career out of investigating McCarthy," Hennings says — and many of his colleagues warmly sympathize with this natural reluctance. Thus it has been rather easy for the Democrats to agree on a "leave him lie" policy.

Don't Let Age Interfere If You Have A Job To Do

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Growing old is a wistful experience for many men and women. The loss of vigor and strength that accompanies aging is misconstrued as a sign that the end is drawing near. These individuals tend to fight back by redoubling their efforts and doing more rather than less. The outcome may or may not be disastrous. It is better to take each decade as it comes and act accordingly.

Age 55 frequently is considered the prime of life and many persons have achieved fame after reaching this milestone. Some, already eminent, have gone on to even greater

Detroit Lions Capture Western Division Title In NFL

Doak Walker's 38th Straight Conversion Ties Eagles, 13-13

Lions' Rally In 4th Period Knots Score; 54,939 Witness Tilt

By JOE FALLS
DETROIT, Dec. 5 (AP)—The Detroit Lions, pressured by Philadelphia's big, savage line, rallied for a touchdown in the final four minutes today to tie the Eagles 13-13 and clinch their third straight Western Division title.

The tie was the Lions' first against eight wins and one loss.

A one-yard sweep by halfback Lew Carpenter at 11:40 of the final period brought Detroit from behind before a roaring crowd of 54,939 in Briggs Stadium. Doak Walker kicked the tying extra point, his 38th without a miss this season.

Eagles' Line Shows Class

Prior to this, however, the Eagles, who were rated as 13-point underdogs, pushed the Lions all over the frozen turf. Philadelphia's massive line, led by tackles Frank Kilroy and Mike Jarmoluk, a pair of 230-pound ruffians, kept pressing Detroit's passers from the very first play of the game.

Quarterback Adrian Burk pitched the Eagles into a 13-3 lead, hitting ends Pete Pihos and Bobby Walston with touchdown passes.

Burk fired a 23-yarder to Pihos in the second period, then combined with Walston on a brilliant 75-yard play in the third period.

The Eagles—who are eliminated from the Eastern Division race—lost a chance for one of the sea-

Detroit Lions Capture Western Division Title In NFL

Doak Walker's 38th Straight Conversion Ties Eagles, 13-13

Lions' Rally In 4th Period Knots Score; 54,939 Witness Tilt

By JOE FALLS

DETROIT, Dec. 5 (AP)—The Detroit Lions, pressed by Philadelphia's big, savage line, rallied for a touchdown in the final four minutes today to tie the Eagles 13-13 and clinch their third straight Western Division title.

The tie was the Lions' first against eight wins and one loss.

A one-yard sweep by halfback Lew Carpenter at 11:49 of the final period brought Detroit from behind before a roaring crowd of 54,939 in Briggs Stadium. Doak Walker kicked the tying extra point, his 38th without a miss this season.

Eagles' Line Shows Class

Prior to this, however, the Eagles, who were rated as 13-point underdogs, pushed the Lions all over the frozen turf. Philadelphia's massive line, led by tackles Frank Kilroy and Mike Jarmoluk, a pair of 250-pound ruffians, kept pressing Detroit's passers from the very first play of the game.

Quarterback Adrian Burk pitched the Eagles into a 13-3 lead, hitting ends Pete Pihos and Bobby Walston with touchdown passes. Burk fired a 23-yarder to Pihos in the second period, then combined with Walston on a brilliant 75-yard play in the third period.

The Eagles—who are eliminated from the Eastern Division race—lost a chance for one of the season's major upsets when Walston missed his conversion attempt after he had scored Philadelphia's second touchdown.

Walston Runs 55 Yards

There was a bit of irony in this, too, because only a few seconds earlier the rangy end had foiled the entire Detroit team to gather in Burk's touchdown pass. With the third period a minute old, Walston took Burk's pass on Phila-

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 (INS)—Dave Sparks, 238-pound Washington Redskins professional league tackle, died tonight a few hours after he had played against the Cleveland Browns at Griffith Stadium.

Keeping Up With Hollywood by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 5—(INS)—The first press agent to earn $1,000 a week was the late Harry Reichenbach. During his hectic lifetime he wrote a book called "Phantom of Broadway," which Edmund O'Brien, who got a taste of playing a press agent in "Barefoot Contessa," is now buying for an independent picture.

I could write a dozen columns on theantics of Reichenbach. Years ago, T. R. Zan registered at a Broadway hotel. Every day he ordered 25 pounds of steak delivered to his room, but the door was only opened wide enough to accept the food. Finally it made got in—and sitting on the divan was a huge lion! Her screams brought guests and help running from all directions. You guessed it. Harry planted the lion to exploit "Tarzan," starring Elmo Lincoln, the first of the Tarzans.

Reichenbach introduced a Turkish film extra to President Harding at the White House and got away with it. This advertisement "The Virgin of Stambul," starring Priscilla Dean.

The career of Peggy King, who is on the George Gobel show, has taken such an upward jump that she has received TV and movie offers.

Don Hartman has her in mind for a musical, and it looks very much as if she'll sign with Paramount. He saw her at the Panhandle dinner and thought she was just terrific.

Jack Webb has been talking to Peggy about a picture for him, and in addition to this, her current recording "Make Yourself Comfortable," sold 80,000 copies within a week after she sang it.

(Copyrighted 1954 by INS)

The big success of "Carmen Jones" was bound to bring on other all-negro films—and it has. Eddie "Rochester" Anderson, better known to millions as Jack Benny's beloved Rochester, will star in a shoot-'em-up all-negro musical western with the fascinating title of "The Bull Drew Aces." Harrison Dunham and William Ward are the co-producers for Rochester productions.

"We're giving it the full treatment," says Rochester, "using one of the wide-screen processes, color, and a top musical score."

Chit-Chat: I must admit that I paid little attention when I got all those stories about Carlos Thompson falling for this and that girl. But I had to listen when I received a letter saying that all the talk that Thompson and Yvonne De Carlo (who discovered him) are reunited in Munich is a lot of you-know-what.

Seems that Thompson, who is co-starring with Yvonne in "Magic Fire" for William Dieterle, has fallen for a German actress named Hannah Rucker. He's fallen so hard that he took her to London when they had a few days off.

Brownie Troop Invested Here

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Mrs. Bob Crosby has been in Scripps Clinic for several weeks. The shock of her young sons' adventure when they ran away from home didn't do her any good. Bob goes to see her this week.

Julie Murphy, George's wife, who has been ailing with such miserable arthritis, is back home again after spending some weeks in Palm Springs.

The Basil Rathbones are coming home. Ouida has leased a home in Brentwood, and that will be the first time they've been here in two years.

Waiting in my car while shopping I saw a young man skipping along, and who do you think it was? Sammy Davis Jr., who wears a dark eye patch, and he asked me to thank everyone who had written him after his accident.

Marty Melcher, Doris Day's husband, leaves for London after the holidays to talk to Val Parnell about Doris appearing in the Palladium.

Anna Maria Alberghetti, who really had an ovation in Las Vegas, tells me that she spent a day with Pier Angeli, and if the bride and Vic Damone are feuding, she doesn't know anything about it.

Who is Joe Shapiro? He was Ida Lupino's first date at Jack's At The Beach since she and Howard Duff came to a parting of the ways.

Isabel Bigley, who was such a hit in "Guys and Dolls," was at the Coconut Grove opening. She said that she and her husband are on their first vacation in years. That's all today. See you tomorrow.

New makeup is the means to a new you!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

You're tired of the face that looks back from your mirror? Then it's time for a change—via makeup.

The foundation you apply for a smooth, even surface, and as protection against weather, can change the tone of your skin, as well. Suppose your skin is fair, with blue undertones, and orange is a color you shy away from. A foundation different from your natural coloring can supply enough gold to make you look pretty in orange... provided you can blend the makeup into the throat area without an obvious line of demarcation. Otherwise, you'll achieve a two-toned effect that is both unnatural and unbecoming.

If you can wear an orange dress, you can wear an orange lipstick. Or if you look pretty in violet, you can wear a blue-toned red. Clear red, which blends with all neutrals and with red dresses, too, is flattering to almost everyone. You have to coordinate makeup with clothes, you know, as much as with skin tones.

Daylight Test

Be sure all makeup looks right by daylight. Before buying, test lipstick on the back of your hand, foundation the same way, and powder over foundation, if possible. You use cosmetics to look well-dressed... how well-dressed depends upon the sense with which you choose, and the artistry with which you apply them!

Powder can do even more than foundation to change skin tone—to soften ruddiness, or give a rosy glow to skin that is sallow. Be extravagant with powder; press it into your foundation instead of dragging it on. After applying, remove the excess with a cotton

Daily Bridge Lessonby Barclay*TOO WEAK TO GO HIGHER

IT IS a good policy, as a general rule, to give your partner the message, that you hold four cards or more of his suit when you show a fit for it without knowing that it is more than four cards in length in his hand. But there are occasions when you can't afford to do that. One of these arises when you have only three cards of his suit and are not strong enough to go to higher level in order to show a different biddable suit. Another comes when your holding is barely worth a single call and you feel it had better be a raise than a showing of something else.

Daily Bridge Lesson

TOO WEAK TO GO HIGHER
IT IS a good policy, as a general rule, to give your partner the message, that you hold four cards or more of his suit when you show a fit for it without knowing that it is more than four cards in length in his hand. But there are occasions when you can't afford to do that. One of these arises when you have only three cards of his suit and are not strong enough to go to a higher level in order to show a different biddable suit. Another comes when your holding is barely worth a single call and you feel it had better be a raise than a showing of something else.

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

Since West opened the auction with about as weak a hand as justifiable, he properly passed East's free bid of 2-Spades, and shortly was glad he did.

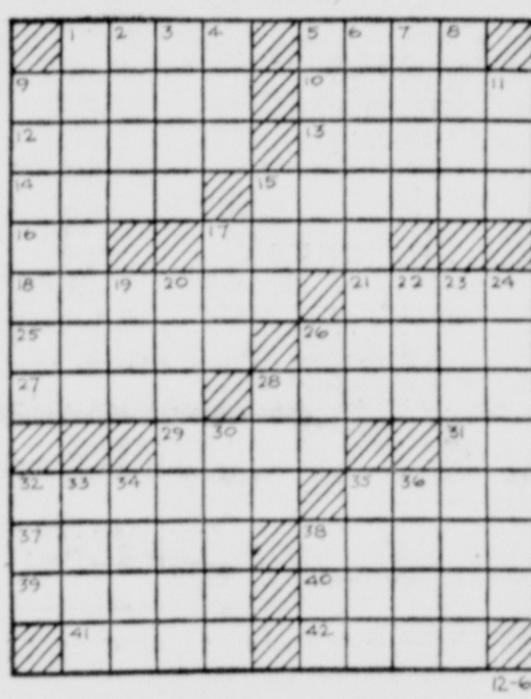

North scored the heart K and, on seeing the dummy and South's 2, shifted to the diamond 3, which the A won. The diamond J was returned to the K and West next sent the heart 9 to the A. The diamond Q was scored next, South

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:A X Y D L B A A X R
I S L O N G F E L L O W

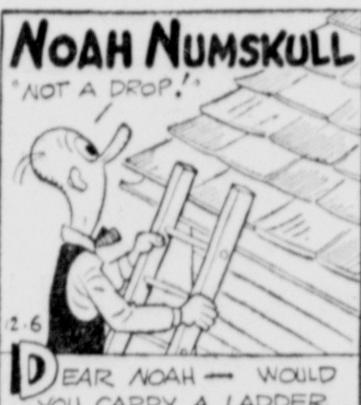

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Jaycees Sponsor Yule Lighting Contest Again

Seven Divisional Winners To Be Named

"Brighten Your Community's Christmas" is the theme for the annual Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce Christmas Home Lighting Contest, according to Gilbert Bohn, who is serving as contest chairman.

One major change in the contest this year is that Cumberland and its environs have been divided into seven divisions. A first, second and third place winner will be named in each of the seven divisions.

Four of the divisions are within the city limits. The North End division includes the area east of Wills Creek and north of Baltimore Street and Baltimore Avenue. The East Side division extends south from Baltimore Street and Baltimore Avenue to Williams Street.

The Jaycee committee has determined the South End division to include everything west and south of Williams Street to the Potomac River. The West Side division includes the area west of Wills Creek and north of the Potomac River.

The fifth division embraces Locust Grove, Narrows Park, LaVale and Allegany Grove. Bowling Green is the sixth division and Potomac Park is the seventh.

A $25 grand prize will be offered for the residence with the best decorations. This champion entry also will be photographed and submitted to the National Christmas Lighting Contest sponsored by General Electric Company. In that national competition there will be a $500 first prize, two $250 prizes, four $175 prizes, five $100 awards and 10 $50 prizes.

The winner in each of the other six major divisions of the contest will receive $10. A second place prize of $5 will be given away to the runnerup in each of the seven divisions. Merchandise will be given to the third place winner in each division.

To enter the contest any resident in the areas covered may write his name and address on a postcard and mail to the Jaycee office, Room 514, Liberty Trust Building between now and Tuesday, December 21. The decorations will be judged December 22 and December 23.

Assisting Bohn in preparations for the annual contest are Leonard Schwab and Oscar Lashley Jr., for prizes; Jack Hicks, for selection of judges; Thad Schott and James Hines, for program; Eldred Steinmann and Albert D. Darby Jr., for publicity.

The Red Cross bloodmobile will be in Cumberland today and in Frostburg tomorrow for the monthly collection of a minimum of 300 pints of blood.

Each community has a quota of 150 pints, and volunteer donors who have made appointments are urged by Red Cross officials to keep them, if at all possible. At this time of the year, they point out, many people have colds or other ailments, and cannot give blood. Therefore it is essential that those who are well and able help fill the quota.

It is not necessary to have an appointment, and volunteer walk-ins will be welcomed at the Eagles Home, North Mechanic Street, this afternoon, or at the Legion Home in Frostburg tomorrow afternoon.

Gov. McKeldin Gives Advice To Young Politicos

CHESTERTOWN, Md., Dec. 5.—Gov. McKeldin, the most successful Republican politician in Maryland history, offered a formula for success Saturday to youngsters in the Democratic party as well as his own.

"Know your people..." take advice, and remain strong in the face of adversity, he told about 250 listeners at the third annual "practical politics" conference attended by high school and college students.

The conference is set up by the Young Democratic Clubs of Maryland.

"First," said the governor, "know your people—the workings of their minds, their hopes, their fears, the things they admire, and the things they dislike."

"Unless you agree with the people in most instances, you had better get out of politics, for you cannot represent them fairly," he added.

Taking advice is necessary, he said, because "no one person can know everything. And only those who seek information from the best informed on any given project can be successful in politics."

"The trouble with many men," he said in discussing "faith," is that after a defeat or two they lose their faith, turn completely cynical, and thereafter are no longer practical politicians, but parasites, trying to grab what they can for themselves without regard for the public good, which they have come to believe is a delusion."

Joseph D. Tydings, delegate-elect from Harford County and president of the Young Democrats, and J. Glenn Beall Jr., president of the Young Republican Club of Maryland, received books from the governor.

Tydings and Beall discussed "the Importance of Youth in Politics."

The conference was held at Washington College under sponsorship of the Young Democrats.

Today's Sermonette

Heavy Snow Warning Is Called Off

The weatherman last night apparently decided to cancel a scheduled heavy snowfall, ranging from three to six inches, which was hit the Cumberland area.

However, some rain, turning to a light snow possibly might fall here sometime early this morning.

Late yesterday the Weather Bureau issued a special bulletin saying a narrow band of heavy snow was expected through West Virginia, western and northern Virginia, Maryland, Delaware and possibly the extreme southern portions of Pennsylvania.

A few hours later, the Bureau announced that a storm area in the Southeastern states, which had threatened to combine with cold air from Canada to produce snow, was remaining farther south than had been anticipated.

The Bureau said rain in northern Virginia and Southeastern Maryland was expected to change to light snow and end during the night with little accumulation.

The heavy snow hit southern West Virginia and Flat Top, near Bluefield, had 10 inches in six hours during the afternoon. West Virginia State Police at Romney said heavy snow was reported falling yesterday evening at Franklin about 100 miles southwest of here.

Route 50 east and west of Romney was reported clear about 9 p.m. yesterday, and State Police at Bedford said that highways in the area were clear with chilly temperatures.

Here in Cumberland last night the air was crisp with a cool temperature of 30 degrees registered at Constitution Park at 7:30 p.m. Humidity at 6 p.m. was 72 percent.

The official high temperature yesterday was 40 degrees with a low reading of 27 degrees. This same reading was recorded at Constitution Park at 7:30 p.m. Humidity at 6 p.m. was 72 percent.

Jaycees Sponsor Yule Lighting Contest Again

Seven Divisional Winners To Be Named

"Brighten Your Community's Christmas" is the theme for the annual Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce Christmas Home Lighting Contest, according to Gilbert Bohn, who is serving as contest chairman.

One major change in the contest this year is that Cumberland and its environs have been divided into seven divisions. A first, second and third place winner will be named in each of the seven divisions.

Four of the divisions are within the city limits. The North End division includes the area east of Wills Creek and north of Baltimore Street and Baltimore Avenue. The East Side division extends south from Baltimore Street and Baltimore Avenue to Williams Street.

The Jaycee committee has determined the South End division to include everything west and south of Williams Street to the Potomac River. The West Side division includes the area west of Wills Creek and north of the Potomac River.

The fifth division embraces Locust Grove, Narrows Park, LaVale and Allegany Grove. Bowling Green is the sixth division and Potomac Park is in the seventh.

A $25 grand prize will be offered for the residence with the best decorations. This champion entry also will be photographed and submitted to the National Christmas Lighting Contest sponsored by General Electric Company. In that national competition there will be a $500 first prize, two $250 prizes, four $175 prizes, five $100 awards and 10 $50 prizes.

The winner in each of the other six major divisions of the contest will receive $10. A second place prize of $5 will be given away to the runner-up in each of the seven divisions. Merchandise will be given to the third place winner in each division.

To enter the contest any resident in the areas covered may write his name and address on a postcard and mail to the Jaycee office, Room 514, Liberty Trust Building between now and Tuesday, December 21. The decorations will be judged December 22 and December 23.

Assisting Bohn in preparations for the annual contest are Leonard Schwab and Oscar Lashley Jr., for prizes; Jack Hicks, for selection of judges; Thad Schott and James Hines, for program; Eldred Steinmann and Albert D. Darby Jr., for publicity.

The Word of God always is concerned with God's personal speaking to mankind in current and living situations. It is not something that is like the laws of

Chamber Names Group To Study Tax Exemptions

The Chamber of Commerce has named a committee to study tax exemptions for industry and their relation to county finances. R. Finley Thompson, Chamber president, has announced.

C. William Gilchrist will be chairman of the study group, and other members include Charles A. Piper, Edgar D. Vandegrift, J. Kenneth Morgan and Joseph M. Naughton.

The committee will report all its findings to the Chamber's standing Industrial Promotion Committee, of which Naughton is chairman. The Chamber was given the job of studying the tax exemption setup and making recommendations after a hearing last week which resulted from a controversy over existing tax exemption laws.

The Board of County Commissioners declared the county had lost considerable revenue under the present system.

"It is the Chamber's wish," Thompson declared, "to cooperate with all appropriate groups to end that a solution can be found which will not, on the one hand, impair the financial position of the county, nor, on the other, impede the industrial promotion effort of the Chamber."

Speaking for the Chamber last Wednesday at the hearing held by the Allegany County Delegation and State Senator Robert B. Kimble, Naughton urged that a study be made of the problems arising from tax exemption bills.

He stated his belief that a solution can be reached if "all interested parties sit down and intelligently study the problem."
